High Winds Hit Illinois

CHICAGO (UP)—Gusty winds coupled with rain and cloudy skies played hob with m'lady's new Easter bonnet throughout Illinois.

The Sunday weather was preceded by tornado funnels which hopped across Illinois and Iowa Saturday. One Illinois death and at least 11 injuries were attributed to the twisters.

Six injured were reported at Fayetteville, while four were listed at Horse Prairie and one at Sesser, the Illinois Highway Patrol said.

Police Chief Carl Halant of Sesser raised the damage estimate there to the more than $300,000 figure. He said 10 homes were destroyed, 13 were damaged badly, 25 to 30 slightly damaged, and 60 will need new roofs. Seven automobiles and 25 garages were destroyed. All the windows were blown out of the city hall and four empty coal cars were lifted off the CB&Q tracks.

Heavy hail struck Vergennes, Du Quoin, Marion, Cairo, Ill., and Cape Girardeau and Chaffee, Mo. Some wind damage also was reported at Chaffee.

Tornado winds hit Chester, Ill., knocked over television antennas, and ripped off roofs and porches. But damage was reported as minor.

State police said another twister tore down power lines about two miles south of Steelville.

Funnels accompanied severe thunderstorms in some areas, including Murphysboro, where a twister last December killed 10 persons.

At Breese, a twister touched down several times and cut a half-block swath through the town. About 15 buildings were damaged, including a grain company storage building, a garage and a newly completed airplane hangar.

Killed at Fayetteville was Myron Brambley, 52, Granite City. His wife Marice and their daughter, Donna, were injured.

Others injured were Alma and Roy Wieland, LeMay, Mo., and their son, Roy Jr., and Claude Valleroy, also of LeMay, at whose clubhouse outside Fayetteville the Wielands were staying.

Injured at Sesser were Elmer Clampt, 80. Those injured at Horse Prairie, about a mile east of Sesser, were William Sample, 50, his wife, Helen, 49, their daughter, Joyce 6, and Wanda Newberry, 27.

Officials credited the Southern Illinois Storm Warning System, made up of civilians and ham radio operators, with preventing possible additional loss of life and injuries.

Install New Meters on City Parking Lots

New meters which will give eight hours parking for a quarter are being installed today on the two city parking lots.

Meters have been on the lot between East Poplar and East Locust street near Cherry for several months and these are being taken off to be used on city streets, with new eight-hour meters to be placed there.

The lot between West Poplar and West Locust near Jackson will be getting parking meters for the first time.

Duncan-Miller meters are being used. Chief of Police Ross Lane today pointed to the convenience of the new lots and meters to persons who work uptown or who will be uptown for a long time during the day and urged such persons to take advantage of them.

He also pointed out that the entrances to the two lots are on Poplar street, the exits on Locust. Lane cautioned against entering a lot from the wrong street, then backing into the lane. This practice can cause damage to meter posts and will not be allowed, he stated.

Weather Fails to Prevent Millions From Attending Easter Services

Press for Peace, Pope Urges In Annual Message

By United Press

Christians the country over braved rain, snow and cold winds Easter Sunday to answer the joyous peal of church bells summoning them to worship and triumph of Christ's resurrection from the dead.

The weather forced cancellation of many colorful Easter parades, including New York's fashionable Fifth Avenue parade which was washed out by a record Easter rainfall.

But the weather failed to prevent millions of Americans from attending church services as they joined Christians throughout the world in celebrating the holy feast which ended the somber 40-day Lenten season.

In Jerusalem, a record throng of thousands of pilgrims arose before dawn in the Holy Land to watch the Easter sun burst over the Mount of Olives in sunrise services overlooking the old, walled city.

Pope Pius XII, in his annual Easter message from Vatican City, urged all nations to "press with confidence the difficult and urgent task" of restoring a just peace in the world.

Traditional Easter services were held for U. S. troops in Korea, manning the free world's defenses in the uneasy peace in the Far East. About 150 servicemen attended the services in view of Communist troops across the demilitarized zone for the first time since the war ended.

About 50,000 Koreans and 1,500 American servicemen attended sunrise services on Nam Sam Hill overlooking the capital city of Seoul.

President Eisenhower and his family observed Easter by driving from the President's farm in a steady rain to services at the Gettysburg Presbyterian church.

In China, Radio Peiping reported that crowds of worshippers defied rain to attend sunrise Easter services in Shanghai and Canton.

Millions of Russian faithful started celebrating Holy Week Sunday, one week behind most of the Christian world. The Russian Orthodox Church marks the celebration a week late because it follows the old calendar.

Poland greeted Eastern morning in its traditional manner, touching off fireworks at dawn. The nation's primate, Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński, conducted the main services in the Cathedral of St. John in Warsaw.

Death Takes Mrs. Louis Goolsby, 73; Funeral Tuesday

There are 27 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren surviving.

The body will lie in state at the Gibbons funeral home in Harrisburg and funeral services will be held there at 2 p. m. Tuesday. Rev. Roy Reynolds will officiate and burial will be in the Butler cemetery, south of Dorrisville.

Ike and Mamie Greet Children at Easter Egg Roll

WASHINGTON (UP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower wished a "Happy Easter" today to 4,800 squealing youngsters at the annual White House Easter egg roll. The President and First Lady appeared on the south porch of the White House to welcome the youngsters after a brief chant of "We Want Ike" in piping, childish voices.

Some 4,800 youngsters and their parents had been clocked through the gates by the time their hosts put in their annual appearance at the frolic.

Noting some threatening clouds in the bright, sunny skies, the President said he hoped the weather would "cooperate" so the egg rollers would not have the "discomfort of a shower."

He also extended "sympathy" to youngsters who had to attend school to day and were "missing the fun."

The President ended his brief remarks by saying Mrs. Eisenhower joined him in wishing a "Happy Easter to all of you."

Then he flashed the famed "Ike grin," and waved. Mrs. Eisenhower, wearing a bright yellow spring coat, threw a kiss at the crowd.

The youngsters cheered. Actually, there were few Easter eggs and baskets in evidence. But there was something new—matzos balls.

Paul Lazar, a 15-year-old from Langley Park, Md., brought along a pan of the unleavened Jewish bread because, he said, "this is Passover, as well as Easter and I thought it would be different."

One of the matzos was dyed green.

Temporary snow fences protected the President's putting green and all shrubs.

Grand Jury Is Convened by Judge Zimmerman

Judge Zimmerman said that another lawsuit, Bean vs. Warzel et al, has been added to the docket. It has been set for April 22.

Lands, Burns In Muddy Field Near Runway

Capacity Load of Passengers Returning From Holiday Trips

MIDLAND, Mich. (UP)—A Capital Airlines Viscount landing on instruments in a light snow storm crashed short of the runway at Tri-City Airport Sunday night, killing all 47 aboard.

Searchers who returned to a muddy cornfield at dawn today found the last of the dismembered and burned bodies.

Civil Aeronautics Board and Civil Aeronautics Administration inspectors and engineers converged on the scene to try and find out why the "million mile," 17-year veteran pilot landed more than a third of a mile short of the runway.

The inspectors said pilot William J. (Joe) Hull, 44, either could have misjudged his approach or the plane could have crashed because of a power or instrument failure.

Fred G. Powell, CAB investigator-in-charge from Chicago, said it might be a week before any solid conclusion could be reached on the cause of the crash.

The plane nosed into a field where rescuers sank ankle deep in the mud and large ponds of water made flood lights and airport lights bounce at crazy angles. Powell said the plane's four engines were embedded deep in the mud.

12 Bodies Identified

Powell said Hull appeared to be in direct line with the southwest-to-northeast runway. He said A. B. Hallman, engine specialist and Jack Leake, structural engineer, both with the CAB in Washington, arriving today, would start tearing down the plane Tuesday. Ten other CAB and CAA investigators were on the scene.

Powell said Hull had made one of his routine radio contacts with the Capital office at Tri-City Airport just three minutes before the crash and all was well.

By 10 a. m. only 12 of the bodies had been identified. They were stretched across a concrete floor in a hangar morgue, covered with sheets and papers. The bodies were torn and smashed and most were terribly burned.

The $1,250,000 British-made plane burst into flames the instant it touched the ground and firemen had to string hoses more than a thousand feet through a quagmire of mud to reach the scattered and burning wreckage.

The plane was carrying a capacity load of 44 passengers returning home from Easter holiday trips.

It was the first major commercial air disaster in Michigan.

The crew members were Capt. William Joseph (Joe) Hull, 46, Ridgewood Blvd., Westwood, N. J., a veteran Capital pilot; First Officer or co-pilot Earl M. Brinkley, 27, 24 Moss Lane, Levittown, N. Y.; and hostess Ruth Denecke, 27, East Aurora, N. Y., a native of Jackson, Mich.

John Weiss, New York, vice president in charge of the advancement of education for the Ford Foundation, was aboard the plane. Names of some aboard were withheld until relatives were notified.

Capital said it was the airline's first crash causing a death since December, 1949. The airline had flown six billion passenger miles since that crash.

The plane was on a flight from New York City to Chicago, with stops at Detroit, Flint, Mich., and the Tri-City Airport.

Childers-Brake Marriage Solemnized

Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Brake

Miss Susan Jill Childers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dallas Childers, 808 Oak street, West Frankfort, and Donald R. Brake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford C. Brake, Albion, were married in the Baptist church at West Frankfort in a candlelight evening wedding, March 29. Rev. T. H. King performed the double ring ceremony before the altar decorated with a white arch entwined with ivy and white carnations, candelabras of burning tapers and white gladioli in standards of greenery.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a princess wedding gown fashioned of Chantilly lace and taffeta, embroidered with sequins and seed pearls. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped Sabrina neckline and long fitted sleeves, pointed at the hands. There was a panel of the lace falling to the front hemline of the full taffeta skirt, which carried a bow in the back and ended in a chapel train. Her veil of illusion was secured to a crown of sequins and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of sweetheart roses, gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Rovenia Thomas, West Frankfort, served as the bride's maid of honor and wore a cotton blue taffeta sheath under a net overskirt. A matching short circular blue net veil was worn over a tight headband. Her flowers were arranged in a nosegay of white carnations.

Miss Ledora Sharknas, West Frankfort, was bridesmaid and wore a dress and headress identical that that of the maid of honor. She carried an identical bouquet.

Miss Linda Childers, cousin of the bride, Marion, was her junior bridesmaid and wore a dress of materials similar to that of the other attendants, styled with a full skirt. She also carried a nosegay of white carnations.

The flower girl, Janet Lee Cox, niece of the bridegroom, wore a floor length cotton blue dress with a net overskirt and her headband was made of white carnations. She carried a basket of rose petals.

Charles King, West Salem, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, acted as his best man.

Robert Williams, Albion, was the groomsmen and Michael Mitchell, West Frankfort, cousin of the bride was the junior groomsmen.

Ushers were Lawrence Kincaid, Marion, Robert Pigg, Albion, Ronald Plumlee and Samuel Mitchell, cousins of the bride, from West Frankfort.

Richard Childers, brother of the bride, sang, "Because," "We'll Walk With God" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied at the organ by Miss Olive Boner who also played the wedding marches.

Mrs. Childers, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue chemise dress trimmed in powder blue. Her corsage was of pink camelias.

Mrs. Brake chose an ensemble of navy blue for her son's wedding and tangerine accessories. Her corsage of carnations matched her accessories.

There was a reception in the church immediately following the wedding and Mr. and Mrs. Brake lighted a memory candle which gave off the scent of lily of the valley.

The wedding cake held the place of honor at the bride's table and hostesses were: Mrs. Mary Cox and Mrs. Charles King, sisters of the bridegroom, Albion; Miss Janice Walker, Springfield; Miss Carolyn Durr, Mulberry Grove; Miss Phyllis Horton, cousin of the bridegroom, Albion and Miss Phyllis McDonald, roommate of the bride, Christopher.

The bride will receive her degree in June from S. I. U. with a major in kindergarten-primary education. She is a member of the Delta Zeta sorority.

Mr. Brake was graduated from S. I. U., class of 1957, and teaches Industrial Education at Carrier Mills high school.

Following a short wedding trip to the Missouri Ozarks, Mr. and Mrs. Brake will be at home to their friends at 303 E. Church street, Harrisburg.

Deborah Sunday School Class Entertains Husbands With Dinner

The members of the Deborah Sunday school class of the First Baptist church held an Easter dinner in the education building Friday evening, and invited the husbands to attend. There were 29 members and guests present for the dinner and social hour. Mrs. Marion Froman, program chairman, was in charge of the party arrangements and Mrs. Dwight Karnes, president, welcomed a new member, Mrs. Harold Davis, and Mr. Davis presented Mrs. Bob Burnett, class teacher, with a growing Easter lily in the name of the class.

Mrs. Otho Josey gave the devotion on the subject of "Peace" and Mrs. W. A. Hamby led group singing accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Marie Springs.

The dinner table was festive with yellow jonquils and yellow crepe paper decorations against which milk glass hens on nests, roosters and hens, eggs and vases and bowls filled with the jonquils were set. The favors were miniature Easter baskets filled with bright colored candies.

There were games and prizes were won by Henry Devar and Harold Davis.

Perhaps the most amusing game was the choosing of four couples for an Easter fashion parade. The wives dressed their husbands in chemise dresses made with newspapers and colored crepe paper. The men modeled the dresses with Easter hats, also made for the occasion.

Class members and their guests expressed their pleasure in the party and the officers and committee members felt rewarded for their care in the planning and labor necessary for its success.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Harry P. Storke, of Washington, D. C., and their daughter, Miss Carolyn Storke, student at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo., have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Davenport for a week. Mrs. Davenport is the daughter of Maj. Gen. Storke and Mrs. Storke. They were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Davenport, Tom Davenport's parents, while in Harrisburg. Maj. Gen. Storke and Miss Carolyn left Saturday and Mrs. Storke is leaving Harrisburg today to return to her home.

Clifford Davenport of Alton, where he is a teacher, has been vacationing with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Davenport, for the Easter vacation. His houseguest in Harrisburg has been Charles Hudgens, Minneapolis, Minn., who was formerly a resident of Harrisburg.

Aging Population:

Longer Life Span Confronts Nation with New Problems

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON UP— Since the turn of the century, medical science has added two full decades to the average span of life.

While nearly everyone agrees that this is a blessing, it has confronted this youth-worshipping nation with a new set of problems—the problems of an aging population.

In 1900, it was quite a feat to live to the age of 65. Only 3 million men and women then alive had managed it.

Today there are 15 million Americans over 65, and 5 million of them are over 75.

Furthermore, the number of "senior citizens" is still growing, much more rapidly than the general population. By 1975, one person out of every 10 will belong to the over-65 age group, compared to one out of 25 in 1900.

We Create a Myth

The significance of these statistics is not widely appreciated, according to G. Warfield Hobbs, chairman of the National Committee on the Aging. He says the chief reason is that "we have created a myth about the 'golden years'."

This myth depicts old age as a time when white-haired couples enjoy a life of well-earned leisure. You see them playing shuffleboard with the neighbors in a Florida retirement village, or mailing postcards to the grandchildren from a long-planned tour of the West.

For a fortunate few, this may be an accurate picture of life after 65. But where do you find room in this picture for the 400,000 lonely oldsters who spend their lives staring at the ceiling in nursing homes? Or for the 3 million who live with their married children or other relatives because they are unable—financially or physically—to maintain a home of their own? And what of the 7 million who try to get along on incomes of less than $80 a month?

These are some of the people that Hobbs and other authorities have in mind when they say that it is time for Americans to quit kidding themselves about the problems of aging.

One of the most severe problems is maintaining an adequate income.

Most 65-year-olds feel, quite properly, that they are still a long way from old age. They have an average life expectancy of 13 more years. But a custom which dates back to the era when 65 was an advanced age holds that this is the time when men and women should retire from productive work. In an increasing number of business and professional jobs, retirement at 65 is not merely customary but compulsory.

Social security and private pension programs have helped to cushion the financial shock of retirement. But nearly everyone still undergoes a drastic reduction of income when he stops drawing a salary check.

Government surveys show that the income of men over 65 averages about 40 per cent of those of men in the 55-64 age group.

The median income of the over-65 age group at the time of the last census was about $960 a year. This means that half of the people were living on less than $80 a month.

Depend on Relatives

Officials estimate that about one-quarter of the people over 65 have no income of their own and are entirely dependent on relatives or public assistance.

Wasn't social security supposed to take care of this problem? To some extent, yes. But millions of today's old folks are not covered. And inflation has reduced the purchasing power of pension dollars for those who are covered.

About 9 million people are currently drawing monthly old age insurance checks from the social security administration. The payments average $74 a month for retired workers with no eligible dependents, $68 for aged widows, and $126 for a retired couple.

The Social Security Act also authorized federal grants to states for "public assistance" payments to needy aged who are not eligible for retirement benefits. Payments range from a low of $28 to a high of $91 a month, with a national average of $54.47.

Social security checks are supplemented, for some retired people, by annuities and private pension programs. But the growth of these programs is a postwar phenomenon, and relatively few of those who retired before 1950 are getting such pensions.

News from the State Capitol

Illinois farmers will get a chance to participate in a state Department of Agriculture "quiz program."

The occasion is the 21st annual farm census in which farmers answer questions on what they did with their land, livestock and poultry last year. The census begins each April 1 and must be completed by July 15. The census is taken by about 1630 township assessors and their deputies when they visit each farm to assess personal property and real estate.

Data is turned over to the county clerks, forwarded to the agriculture department and eventually winds up in a published report of the State-Federal Crop Reporting Service in Springfield. Farmers are required to answer questions asked by assessors but the data is confidential and may not be used for tax purposes.

When the farm census data is added up next fall the sum of the acreage of various crops harvested, together with pasture and other land use in 1957, will give a good picture of Illinois farming. The 1938 census disclosed that there were about 220,000 farms. That figure has dipped to about 175,000 today.

Governor William G. Stratton and top state government officials met to discuss ways to speed up the $660,000,000 Illinois public works programs available this year.

The huge programs, Stratton said, will require an employee force of 92,000 persons, of which approximately 7,500 would fall in the category of new jobs during the year.

Governor Stratton stressed that Illinois is in a position now to make the funds available for the proposed constructions, and no special session of the General Assembly will be needed to implement the programs. He pointed out, too, that all projects are on the basis of need with no "make work" planning in the picture.

Car Abandoned Near Brookport Bridge; Search for SIU Student

BROOKPORT, Ill. (AP) — Authorities today sought a Southern Illinois University student whose abandoned car was found parked near Brookport bridge over the Ohio River.

Police dragged the river in the belief the student, Henry Spray, 29, Metropolis, might have drowned. Authorities said he left home

Sunday morning in a "highly nervous state."

Spray also was pastor of the Baptist Miss in Metropolis.

Two Teen-Agers Held in Jail At Mount Carmel

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill. (AP) — Two Milwaukee teen-agers who walked out of the Princeton, Ind., jail Sunday night and later were stopped by a train as they fled in their second stolen car were held on open charges here today.

Authorities identified the two as Joyce Kruczkowsky, 14, and Dennis Frederick Fink, 14.

They admitted to authorities that they took a car in Milwaukee Friday and drove to Princeton, Ind., where the car became stuck in the mud Sunday night. Authorities became suspicious and took them to jail for questioning.

But when police went to the cell-block to quiet a drunk, the boy and girl walked out of jail and stole another car.

They headed west across the Wabash River toward Mount Carmel and ran through a state police blockade near the bridge. They rammed into the rear of another car that had topped at a railroad crossing for a freight train to pass, then fled on foot but were captured by authorities.

Fink told authorities they were headed for New Orleans to look up his brother-in-law.

Police said Fink was released on March 14 from the Wisconsin School for Boys at Waukesha after serving 10 months for car theft. They said Fink had been in court six times and had admitted stealing another car last Thursday night in Milwaukee.

Five Children On Trestle Killed by Train

MACDONA, Tex. (AP) — The South- ern Pacific Sunset Limited roared around a bend northeast of here Sunday on its Easter Day run to El Paso and killed five children who were snapping pictures from a railroad trestle.

Three of the children were knocked over the railing into the Medina River, 18 feet below the bridge. The other two were found on the three-fourths mile long bridge by their parents, horribly mangled. Engineer J. W. Euforth, speed- ing his 12-car passenger train around a bend at 60 miles an hour, couldn't see the children until it was too late. He yanked frantically on his horn and slammed on the emergency brakes at the same time and the train stopped with two cars still on the bridge.

The children, ranging from 11 to 16 years old, were on an Easter picnic with their parents below the bridge. Their parents warned them not to go up on the trestle because the bend in the tracks made it too dangerous.

Dr. Robert Hausman, Bexar County medical officer, identified the dead as Anna Maria Ramirez, 13; Diana Garza, 11; Laura Garza, 16; and Louis Garza, 12. The Gar- za children were brother and sis- ters.

Anna Maria's sister, Norma Ramirez, 15, died at Lackland Air Force Base Hospital in San An- tonio less than nine hours after the tragedy.

Eight Killed on Illinois Highways

By United Press

Three young men on route on a fishing trip were killed Sunday in one of a number of fatal traffic crashes that marred the Easter weekend in Illinois.

At least eight persons were killed on state highways from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

The weekend's worst wreck claimed the lives of Leonard Hil- leshim, 20, his brother, Glenn, 19, both of Riverside, and David Neuman, 17, Brookfield.

Five other persons were injur- ed, including Robert Herring, 19, Riverside, who was in critical condition at McHenry Hospital. Herring was riding with the vic- tims. Injured less seriously were Loren F. Goebel Sr., his sons, Loren Jr., 21, and Robert, 11, and Joseph Palminteri all of Chicago.

The two-car collision occurred on U. S. 12 north of Volo in Lake County. Authorities said the car containing the victims swerved out of control on the rain-swept highway and collided with Goe- bel's car.

A collision near Godfrey Easter morning killed Roy Powers, 37, Jerseyville, and Miss Helen Crocker, 36, Alton.

Ruth Diane Thorsen, 16, Des Plaines, was killed and three per- sons were injured Sunday in a crash in Des Plaines as the four were returning from a party. Miss Thorsen was thrown from the car.

Administration Criticized for Propaganda Muff

WASHINGTON (AP) — The gov- ernment's foreign propaganda chief hints the administration muffed a chance to take the edge off Russia's big nuclear propa- ganda coup. He says he'll take steps to see the ball isn't dropped in the future.

The implied criticism of the ad- ministration's handling of Mos- cow's announcement of a halt in Soviet nuclear tests was made on Sunday night by George V. Allen, director of the U. S. Information Agency, on an NBC-TV program.

Allen said he was on his way back from a trip to the Far East and didn't know about the pros- pective Soviet announcement until he returned although the State Department already had "a strong indication" the Moscow move was on the way.

"They knew it and I found out when I got back here that they knew it," he said.

Asked if the administration could have done anything "propa- gandawise" in advance that would have "taken the edge" off Russia's announcement, Allen re- plied:

"I think maybe there was, my- self. It is easy to look back on things now, of course. But it seems to me that we might have."

Queried by the United Press on what steps might have been tak- en, Allen said he preferred "not to expand on that any more at this time—it's hashing over things already done."

There have been reports the President might bring back into his administration a top-level adviser on psychological warfare or propaganda. Asked if such an adviser to the President or sec- retary of state would be desir- able, Allen said he thought it "might be a very good idea."

Worshippers Brave Chilly Easter Weather

By United Press

Worshippers braved chilly tem- peratures and overcast skies to attend Eastern sunrise services in Illinois.

About 1,200 persons attended a dawn service conducted by the Rev. Vernon MacNeil of Springfield at Bald Knob Mountain near Alto Pass. The sun broke through over- cast skies just as the service end- ed.

A Southern Illinois University ROTC unit sang hymns at the Bald Knob site, where a $200,000 giant cross is to be erected.

At Lawrenceville, about 1,750 persons joined the Rev. E. L. Car- ter of the Church of the Nazarene, Olney, at services. The scene was dominated by a 48-foot neon-lighted cross which rotated on a 52-foot high pedestal.

Other sunrise services were held at various state parks and histor- ical sites.

At Chicago, Samuel Cardinal Stritch, archbishop of the Chicago Roman Catholic diocese, bid fare- well to the diocese at a pontifical high Mass in Holy Name Cathedral. Cardinal Stritch will leave this month to become pro-prefect of the Sacred Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith.

In central and southern Illinois, communities were at work clear- ing debris caused by severe thun- derstorms and tornadoes which struck Saturday.

Mr. Hill declared: "The social security system is self-supporting, financed by the social security tax contributions made by workers, employers and self-employed persons." He added that the payments into the social security trust fund combined with the interest earned by the trust fund assure the financial soundness of the system, leaving no

Voters of Saline County--

You have heard these words before, but they are nevertheless true:

It is practically impossible for any candidate for office to see all the voters in a county as large as Saline.

Therefore, although I have seen many of you, and have had many words of encouragement, I have missed seeing a lot of you.

I am a candidate for the Democratic nomination for County Treasurer. I must get the Democratic party nomination if I am to be a candidate in the general election. I earnestly solicit the vote of those I have not seen as well as those I have met personally.

Tomorrow—Ask for a Democratic ballot.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
Written for NEA Service)

For many months we have been experiencing cold spells in all parts of our nation. This coldness has killed the life of plants and trees. Leaves and blossoms have disappeared from even the expected places. Soon the warmth of the sun will bring new life where all nature has appeared to be wrapped in the clothing of death.

The new life of nature in our spring season fits in with the new life which came into the world with the resurrection of Christ at Easter. This new life in human beings comes with the warmth of God's presence. It blossoms with the warmth of love and human friendship.

The coldness of indifference, the chill of faultfinding and the frostbite of gossip kill human love. Only the warmth of God's presence brings new life to people seemingly dead in sin.

LEAD WITH YOUR LEFT

by ED LACY

THE STORY: A second policeman has been murdered and the case has been turned over to the Central Office. Nevertheless Detective Dave Wintino is trying to crack it. He is off duty for a couple of days and he sets out to do some investigating on his own time.

XV
I asked her, "Are you the owner of the house?"

"All that the mortgage company doesn't own," she said, her small eyes growing cautious. "What's it to you, sonny?" She spoke pretty clearly without teeth.

I didn't mind the "sonny." With a sport shirt and slacks on I did look like a big 15. "Can you tell me where I can find a Mrs. Kahn?"

"Martha Kahn? She's been at peace six years now. You're listed?"

"Yeah, a distant cousin. I'm in New York for a few days with . . . uh . . . our school basketball team. Thought I'd look the family up."

"And you didn't know Martha was dead? Why . . . ?" The over-red mouth clamped down. "You from the California branch of the family?"

"No, ma'am, from the Michigan branch."

"That's good. When I bought this house from Martha just before she died, while she was so sick, I kept writing them in California to send someone here to look after the old woman. Not a peep out of them. But don't you know, soon as she died they had a lawyer here Johnny-on-the-spot claiming the estate. And them acting so snooty to Martha just because of that old trouble."

"You mean about Uncle Sal?"

"Indeed I do. Like I kept telling poor Martha, what that had to do with her I couldn't see. But those smug sisters of hers out in Los Angeles—well!"

"Of course Uncle Sal, was before my time and I'm a distant relation, but I remember hearing about him. Went to jail, didn't he?"

"Died in the electric chair, he did!" the biddy said, her voice full of enjoyment at finding a new listener for old gossip. "Got himself in trouble during Prohibition, but then everybody was making bootleg booze. You can bet I used my tub for something besides taking a bath. Sal was just unlucky, got hisself mixed up with gangsters, had to kill one."

"Did you know Uncle Sal?"

"Me? I did not. Martha didn't buy this house till many years after her son died. But she told me lots about him. Always good to his mother, a fine son."

"I'm not much up on this line of the family. Are there any other members around here?"

"They all in California, well-off I hear, but wouldn't ever send Martha a Christmas card or nothing, on account of Sal's trouble. She never told me of any family in . . . where did you say?"

"Michigan. Mother was some kind of cousin to Mr. Kahn's brother-in-law. Pretty complicated. Was Uncle Sal her only child?"

"Sure was. Poor Martha, husband dead, son dead, and her sick and alone and those snooty relatives out there in the sun shine never sending her a card. You can bet she always remembered them with cards. Wasn't for the money she got, she'd have starved."

"If she owned this fine house she must have been comfortable."

"Yes! First of every month regular as the calendar, there was a registered letter with two hundred dollars—always twenty dollar bills. I know. The last few months when the poor woman was confined to her bed and only had me to look after her, she opened the letters and I saw the money. But she never would say who it was from."

"Maybe from California?"

"In a pig's . . . eye! I did not see the return addresses on the last two letters being I had to sign for them. Different names and addresses and both of them phony. Yes, sir, I was such a decent friend to poor Martha. I went over to each address, figuring might be a relation who could look after Martha. First time wasn't no such street number, next time wasn't no such party. I asked Martha and she says she had no idea who did send her the money, it just came regular for years."

"Sounds strange, you'd think she'd know who was sending her money," I said.

Baggy nodded. "Ask me, she once told me Sal had a partner in his business but Sal didn't see no sense involving him in this trouble. Ask me, I'd bet this here partner maybe agreed to look after Martha if Sal didn't talk. Yes, sir."

"Didn't Aunt Martha know who this partner was?"

"Said she never knew." "The letters stop when Aunt Martha died?"

"Sure, soon as the papers printed her obit notice the letters stopped," she said.

"Can you recall the two false names and addresses you mentioned? Or the name of Aunt Martha's doctor?"

"Now that was over six years ago and . . . Say, you ask a lot of questions for a kid." The clown mouth became a rough.

heavy line as she stepped back, and slammed the door, shouting. "I bet a fat dollar you're one of them California Kahns! Scoot before I take a broom to you!"

I walked back toward the subway, stopped for a cup of coffee and toast, picked up a paper and read about Wales. There were pictures of him and Owens, taken years ago, and nothing I didn't know in the news story.

Arnold Palmer Wins Masters, One Stroke Ahead of Ford, Hawkins

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Careful study, plus an argument that he won, and a putt that he hit "too hard" all added up today to a green coat for Arnold Palmer, symbolic of his victory in the 22nd Masters golf tournament.

Palmer was also $11,250 richer with the winner's share of the fastest Master's purse in history. The sum pushed the 28-year-old Latrobe, Pa., professional well ahead of the field in the money-winning category.

Palmer's steady 73 in Sunday's final round of the tournament gave him a 72-hole card of 284, four strokes better than par but barely one stroke ahead of defending champion Doug Ford of Mahopac, N. Y., and underrated Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex.

Ford and Hawkins each missed birdie putts on the 18th green that would have thrown the tournament into an 18-hole playoff.

The three-putt miseries also plagued pre-tournament favorite Ken Venturi of San Francisco. It took him a total of 12 putts to get down on four holes, the 6th, 14th, 15th and 16th. Despite his troubles on the greens, Venturi, who played with Palmer, posted an even par 72 and a four-day score of 286.

"I thought I played well but I putted my way right out of the title," the slim, 27-year-old San Franciscan said. "After I three-putted three greens in a row, the only way I could have won was for the whole field to drop dead."

Asked about the controversial ruling which gave Palmer a par three instead of a double bogey five on the 12th hole, Venturi said "I knew he could lift the ball legally and I played every hole after that as if he had gotten a three."

Palmer's tee shot on the short, 155-yard hole landed in the bank between the far side of the green and a sand trap. Heavy recent rains had washed sand out of the trap onto the bank and Palmer's ball was buried in the muck.

Two U. S. Golf Association officials ordered Palmer to play the lie. He flubbed an attempt to dig the ball out and wound up with a five. However, he played the lie under protest and dropped a provisional ball which he sank with a chip and a putt for par.

Scoreboards on the course showed a five, but were changed to three after a rules committee decision. Palmer, meanwhile, was banging home his eagle on the very next hole.

White Sox Defeats Cards, 4-1, as Donovan Hurls Seven Scoreless Innings

The bell rings in another week and some of the real "pros," like Dick Donovan of the White Sox, already have indicated they'll come out fighting.

Donovan, a 16-game winner last year, had been taking his lumps lately and didn't like it. The Phillies raked him for six runs in three innings on March 27 and he blew a six-run lead against the Yankees last week.

"Worried?" someone asked Al Lopez.

"Not yet," replied the White Sox skipper.

But Donovan was concerned and said so.

"Darn right I'm worried," he said, "and I'm going to do something about it in a hurry."

Does Something

He did Sunday with a fine seven-inning scoreless stint against the St. Louis Cardinals that paid off in a 4-1 victory at Houston, Tex.

Just to add a little icing, Donovan slammed a homer and a single that accounted for two of Chicago's runs.

A pair of Red Sox pitchers, Frank Sullivan and Tom Brewer, also gave evidence they are ready for the start of the season by combining in a five-hit 3-0 triumph over the slumping Tigers. It was Boston's 12th victory in the last 13 games and Detroit's sixth straight loss.

Roberto Clemente's grand slam homer in the eighth inning off Jack Urban powered the Pirates to a 5-2 win over the Athletics. Vern Law went the distance for Pittsburgh and gave up eight hits, including a homer by "slugger" Billy Hunter.

Robertson Top Scorer with Impressive Mark

NEW YORK — Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati won the 1957-58 major college basketball scoring championship with the most impressive records ever compiled by a sophomore.

The 6-foot 5-inch Robertson, named the "Player of the Year" by the United Press, scored 984 points in 28 games for a game average of 35.1. Both figures were season highs and the best ever recorded by a first-year varsity player, according to the NCAA Service Bureau.

Elgin Baylor of Seattle and Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas, who finished second and third respectively behind Robertson for the scoring title, held the previous sophomore records. Baylor averaged 29.7 points a game during the 1956-57 campaign while Chamberlain scored 800 points, also during the same season.

Robertson, who is most effective on driving layups, assumed the point lead in mid-January, faced strong threats by both Baylor and Chamberlain and then nailed down the lead for good on March 1. Twice during the stretch, Baylor, who scored 50 or more points on three different occasions, took over the lead, but each time Robertson came on again.

The Cincinnati whiz scored 50 or more points four times twice, against Seon Hall and Arkansas, he scored 56 points to wind up with the third highest average ever and the second best point total.

Baylor finished with 943 points and a 32.5 average, while Chamberlain, who missed several games because of injury, wound up with 633 points and a 30.1 average. Baylor's two-year soph-junior point total of 1,686 topped the previous record of 1,509 set by Rod Hundley of West Virginia during the 1955-56 season.

Dave Philley, the Phillies' fill-in first baseman, unloaded a 12th inning home run over the right field wall that produced a 3-2 decision over the Yankees at Columbia, S. C. Philley struck his blow off Bob Grim, who relieved starter Tom Sturdivant in the ninth.

Dodgers Coast to Win

The Los Angeles Dodgers teed off on World Series hero Lew Burdette for six runs in the first inning and then coasted to an 11-5 victory over the Milwaukee Braves at Fort Worth, Tex.

The San Francisco Giants beat the Cleveland Indians, 9-7, at San Antonio, Tex.; the Baltimore Orioles pounded out 15 hits to defeat the Chicago Cubs, 7-3; and Washington hit Brooks Lawrence and Hersh Freeman liberally in defeating Cincinnati, 8-3, at Nashville, Tenn.

Celtics Even Playoffs, But Russell Hurt

BOSTON — Boston Celtics pivot man Bill Russell may be finished for the remainder of the playoff games, according to Dr. Edward R. Browne, the team's physician.

Russell was taken to Winthrop Hospital Sunday night shortly after the Celtics returned home from St. Louis. His ankle was heavily taped and he obviously could put little weight on it.

From the looks of his right ankle sprain," observed Browne, "I would be surprised if he could play in a seventh game. It's a very bad sprain."

Despite the loss of the big center, who virtually controls the boards when he's in action, the Boston club didn't appear to be discouraged.

"Losing Russell hurts a lot in rebounding," admitted Bob Cousy. "But if everyone is around that board to help out, I think we can get our share of the rebounds. It will eliminate our usual fast break almost entirely, but we took good shots the other night and we can do the same thing again," he said.

The Celtics evened the National Basketball Association's championship playoff series at two games apiece Saturday night with a 109-98 victory over the Hawks. The next game will be played here Wednesday with the sixth in St. Louis and the seventh back in Boston, if it is needed.

THE DAY BEER RETURNED

Twenty-five years ago this April, Americans from coast to coast lined up to get their first legal drink of real beer in 14 years.

In New York, "Happy Days Are Here Again" rang out one minute after midnight over Times Square crowds. Everyone saw the return of beer as a sign of normal living and normal business.

The brewers were ready, because during the dark days of Prohibition they had never given up hope. Scrupulously law-abiding, they had kept their organizations and equipment together making soft drinks and .05 percent beer. To make Volstead Act "near beer" they had to make real beer and then take the alcohol out. More than 200 breweries turning out near beer under Federal license could make the switch in 10 minutes.

Conscious of their responsibility, the brewers were determined to avoid a "carnival of untoward celebration." Most of them delayed the first beer trucks until 6 a. m., an hour calculated to discourage boisterous parties.

Their policy mirrored the mood of a people eager to prove that they were grown up enough to distinguish between gaiety and vice. The day that beer came back, there were no arrests for drunkenness in New York City and police across the country were surprised at the good behavior of the crowds which gathered to greet the new era.

But the return of beer was too good a symbol of happy days ahead to ignore. Strangers grinned at each other on the street and shouted, "Prosit," "Cheers," "Here's How." Theaters were crowded. In Washington, people cheered the truck headed for the White House bearing a large sign, "President Roosevelt, the first beer is for you."

New Yorkers admired the brewers' big horses which clattered to the entrance of the Empire State Building to deliver a case of beer to Alfred E. Smith, former Governor of New York.

Business in speakeasies was shattered. Everyplace else, it hummed. In the 20 states and the District of Columbia without state bars for immediate sale, the thirsty and the curious downed almost a million and a half barrels of beer in the first 24 hours. Some $5 million went into circulation in Chicago, where licenses for 741 establishments had been issued to meet the rush.

Newspaper readers watched with glee the unexpected phenomenon of an upward economic spiral. Toledo glass workers cheered an order for 600,000 beer bottles from a Los Angeles brewery. Printers exulted over news of an order for 80,000,000 beer bottle labels from one brewery alone. The can makers got busy. So did the truck makers, the tire makers, the restaurants, the hotels. Even the grocery stores profited by the new business in beer for home consumption. People smiled over the little factory in St. Joseph, Missouri, which worked around the clock to make 10 tons of pretzels a day.

The ripple spread further afield. Farmers planned bigger crops of hops, with help from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Brewing machinery had to be refurbished and replaced. In the first three years of legal beer, the brewers spent almost $400 million on plant and equipment, while small contractors got work fixing up taverns. To acquaint a new generation with beer, brewers spent nearly $20 million on advertising space and time in the first year alone, spreading prosperity to newspapers and radio stations.

Most welcome net gain of all was the new taxes reaped by federal, state and local governments. The Bureau of Engraving & Printing worked overtime on internal revenue stamps for beer barrels. Uncle Sam expected to haul in $125 million the first year. By the time beer became a matter of course in everyday life, it had given employment to over a million people and poured over a billion dollars back into circulation.
